Alexis Neal, Armour, Lithograph, 1 of 10, on handmade brown paper, 29cm wide and 39cm high.

Floating on a brown background in a wooden frame 38cm wide and 49cm high.

This lithograph of a banana flower uses only two colours: grey and red. The tight red flower hangs down vertically on its thick nobly red stalk. The flower is a shiny elongated oval, its shape reminiscent of a spear head.

It's swathed by three grey petals that join to the stem above the flower and drape around it like a chiffon overskirt. One grey petal on the left flares out as if caught in a breeze.
